There are artists who do not paint on a canvas
And there are musicians who do not publish on record labels
These people represent the cutting edge or the “underground”
And they include graffiti artists as well as bedroom musicians

The Frequency Mutineers are part of these subcultures
As we too are changing the way art and music is perceived
We are, however, also working at a major university
And we’re thus part of the “academy” as well

Some may consider us a “sell out” but we are really just a bridge
As we connect the underground and the academy to benefit both groups
And that connection is a catalyst for the desired change in perception
A change that must occur in order to evoke the talent present in all
